Durban Stadium, now named Moses Mabhida Stadium, is a truly magnificent structure. This majestic 70 000 seater, with 104m high, 380m long arch symbolizes the “Y” in the South African flag, dominating the Durban landscape, at which a number of 2010 World Cup matches were played. Freyssinet Posten supplied and installed the 1F15 post-tensioning system to the stadium’s 6 levels, incorporating 56 039m² of slab and a further 37 905m² of slab, to the podium surrounding the stadium.
